

KAREEM TRISTAN ALLEYNE

Actor

Canadian-born actor, Kareem Tristan Alleyne, was born in Montreal by way of Vincentian and Grenadian parents. Kareem began pursuing his acting endeavours early on, taking part in church plays, drama class, and school talent shows.

By the end of high school, he decided to pursue a post secondary education, studying Professional Theatre at John Abbott College. Since graduating, Kareem has performed in several stage plays including; The Black Theatre Workshop's The Meeting, and Beyond The Mountain's Bard Fiction. He went on to be cast in multiple TV shows such as Quantico, Altered Carbon, iZombie, Jack Ryan and saw his most notable roles in film such as Bounce TV's Marry Me This Christmas and Lifetime TV's Stolen by my Mother:

The Kamiyah Mobley Story. Launching his career in Montreal, Kareem went on to Toronto, eventually establishing himself in Vancouver where he'd be cast in his most prominent roles to date. Kareem continues his journey working in film and TV and has now taken up screenwriting.